

Imagine Justice

From the Inside Out

Reflections for Lent: Easter Sunday

This is the last reflection in our Imagine Justice series. We hope the images, passion and vision of the artists, and scriptures we have engaged, found their way into your thoughts and daily experience, even beyond the intentional time you set aside. We hope you will continue to seek God in and through expressions of art and through voices that often go unheard. You can continue to use this process if it is helpful.

1. Look at images and art, asking, “How does this illustrate a part of my life or the world?”
2. Meditate on what word, concept, or issue keeps recurring you in your life.
3. Engage Scripture, and imagine where you see it lived out or reflected in the world today.

Most importantly, don't neglect your own spirituality and curiosity. Keep growing closer to yourself, your community, and to God.

Focus Word: Resurrection

Scripture:

Luke 24:1-12

Questions:

Where is something new trying to burst out in your life or in the world?

Where do you see beauty coming out of struggle?

Where might you put your energy to work, in hopes of creating change for the future?

Inner Freedom
By Aaron Adam Arroyo

InsideOut Art features currently or previously incarcerated artists. Use the QR code to learn more.